When Calico shows up at the Garage with a busted car, I know she's in trouble. Her four-wheel piece-of-shit is filled to the brim with her and her son's belongings. She's running from something. From someone. She's been through hell, and she's not interested in getting involved with a biker like me. But she isn't going anywhere. One look at her curves and I know she's mine. Getting involved with the president of a motorcycle club is the last thing this single mom wants. But this isn't any MC. This is the Heartlands. When I discover her ex is my sworn-enemy, there is nothing stopping me. I'll make him pay, and then I'll make her mine. down on her knees. There's a twenty-five year difference between these two -- but age is just a number. True love conquers all in the Heartlands. I promise.

Help. I'm alone, tied up, bleeding and terrified. I'm a prisoner at the Atlas motorcycle club compound. Someone kidnapped me, and it looks like it's my boyfriend, Chase. No one knows I'm here. Then again, I'm no one, right? No mother, no stepfather, and my sister may have been kidnapped, too. They can make me disappear. Or worse. It turns out there are worse things than disappearing. I thought Chase was my only hope. My protector. My savior. Now he turns out to be my worst nightmare. Something flickers in his eyes, though. A glimmer of love. If I can get him alone, maybe I can convince him to let me go. To let me live. To let me go back to a time when I thought he was a good guy. Only Chase has the power to make that happen. Everything I am is in his hands right now. And those hands are about to touch me. * * *

At least, that's what I told myself. But Ash is coming to claim what's his - what's rightfully his. And I'm about to discover what it's like to be owned.
