Virtual Obstacle Crossing and the Clinical Implications for Rehabilitation Nov 03 2020 "Fall risk is a concern for a variety of clinical populations, especially in lower-limb amputees. The risk of falling during walking is increased by an individual with pathology's diminished ability for obstacle negotiation. Virtual obstacle crossing environments offer a rehabilitation technique that is space and material efficient and may enhance obstacle crossing skill acquisition and retention through the use of task specificity, repetition, and feedback; while presenting an engaging and motivating challenge for participants. Current literature has not determined the response of an individual to virtual obstacle crossing in comparison to real environment over-ground obstacle crossing, nor whether aging influences this behavior. In a first step to determine the clinical viability of a virtual reality obstacle crossing environment, this task was tested using healthy able-bodied individuals (20 younger adults and 20 older adults) to determine an individual's expected crossing behavior during a single session of training. The purpose of this study was to (1) determine the biomechanical obstacle-crossing behavior of an able-bodied individual within a virtual environment, (2) determine if a learning effect exists with virtual obstacle crossing, and (3) determine if the learning effect will transfer to over-ground obstacle crossing and create performance changes. Dependent variables measured were foot placement before and after the obstacles for the both the lead and trail limbs, toe/heel clearance for both limbs in the vertical and radial directions, and the peak toe and heel elevation. The hypotheses were: (1) a training effect would be observed at the end of the virtual obstacle crossing training in the form of the adoption of a safer obstacle crossing strategy in the virtual environment, (2) a safer obstacle crossing strategy in the real environment would be adopted in the post-test relative to the pre-test, and (3) the performance changes in the virtual environment would be correlated with the performance changes in the real environment, suggesting an association between motor learning in a virtual environment and transfer to a real environment task. It was also postulated that each hypothesized finding would be affected by age, with older adults showing less learning and transfer (albeit still significant) compared to the younger adults. Results indicate that participants learned to cross the virtual obstacle more safely and that change in behavior was transfer to the real environment. Further, while both age groups showed transfer to the real environment task, they differed on which limb their transfer effects applied to. The data suggest it is plausible to use virtual reality training as a way to enhance gait characteristics in the context of obstacle avoidance, potentially a leading to a novel way to reduce fall risk."--Abstract from author supplied metadata.

El método del cocodrilo (Inspector Giuseppe Lojacono 1) Jul 24 2022
La historia de un inspector, unos misteriosos asesinatos y la corrupción de la policía y la mafia. Este es el planteamiento del primer caso en Nápoles del inspector Lojacono, un personaje tenebroso y tremendamente humano que está destinado a marcar el corazón de los lectores. Esto es Nápoles como nunca se había visto: una ciudad caótica cuyos callejones arrojan sombras y ecos de pasos inciertos. Los napolitanos viven absortos en sus preocupaciones cotidianas, de espaldas a la comunidad. En esta atmósfera un asesino puede cometer sus crímenes con bastante soltura, pasar desapercibido entre la multitud y volverse prácticamente invisible. Tres jóvenes que aparentemente no tienen nada en común aparecen muertos tras haber recibido un tiro mortal, a modo de ejecución. El inspector Giuseppe Lojacono acaba de ser transferido de Sicilia a Nápoles tras verse implicado en un turbio caso con la mafia. Arrastrado por su instinto y por circunstancias personales difíciles, se propone descubrir quién está detrás de los asesinatos. En su empeño se verá acompañado por la joven y atractiva magistrada Laura Piras, que ha oído hablar de la increíble habilidad de Lojacono, de su capacidad de observación y deducción. Las primeras investigaciones señalan a un asesino frío y metódico, que la prensa ha bautizado como «El Cocodrilo», porque, al igual que el reptil, es una máquina de matar perfecta y despiadada. Y al igual que el animal, cuando devora a sus víctimas llora, pero las suyas son... lágrimas de cocodrilo. En el origen de estos asesinatos se descubrirá un dolor arraigado y ancestral, una culpa que no ha sido purgada y un amor que todo lo consume. Reseñas: «El escritor napolitano domina a la perfección el oficio de contar una historia, hace gala de una prosa sobria y eficaz, y se revela como un maestro a la hora de construir personajes que resultan emblemáticos porque no son ni arquetipos ni caricaturas.» Ara «Ricciardi es una garantía de éxito. Gócenla.» Jordi Corominas, Revista de Letras «De Giovanni es una máquina del thriller.» Pietro Treccagnoli, Il Mattino «Son las perversiones del hambre, el amor y los sueños la causa de todo en las novelas de De Giovanni.» El País Webbia Feb 25 2020

On Descartes ' Passive Thought May 29 2020 On Descartes ' Passive Thought is the culmination of a life-long reflection on the philosophy of Descartes by one of the most important living French philosophers. In it, Jean-Luc Marion examines anew some of the questions left unresolved in his previous books about Descartes, with a particular focus on Descartes ' s theory of morals and the passions. Descartes has long been associated with mind-body dualism, but Marion argues here that this is a historical misattribution, popularized by Malebranche and popular ever since both within the academy and with the general public. Actually, Marion shows, Descartes held a holistic conception of body and mind. He called it the meum corpus, a passive mode of thinking, which implies far more than just pure mind—rather, it signifies a mind directly connected to the body: the human being that I am. Understood in this new light, the Descartes Marion uncovers through close readings of works such as Passions of the Soul resists prominent criticisms leveled at him by twentieth-century figures like Husserl and Heidegger, and even anticipates the non-dualistic, phenomenological concepts of human being discussed today. This is a momentous book that no serious historian of philosophy will be able to ignore.

Resilience of Luxury Companies in Times of Change Apr 01 2023

Resilience of Luxury Companies in Times of Change is a book for executives and Masters' level students taking courses in luxury management. It offers an insight into the current and emergent business models and strategies luxury companies apply to remain resilient in times of change. It explores a variety of business models answering the following key questions: What is each brand ' s value proposition used to attract a consumer ' s willingness to pay? What is each brand ' s target audience? How do brands navigate and expand their markets? And how do luxury companies organize their resources to design and develop products and services to continually sell to their customers? The answers to these questions provide the foundation of a luxury company ' s business strategy and, as a result, its brand architecture. The authors also explore the patterns that have emerged in the ownership, management and the manufacturing in luxury goods companies, where dominance is usually found in certain countries. This book focuses on six key industries in the luxury product sector: fashion, automotive, hospitality, furniture, cosmetics and jewellery. It provides an international perspective with examples drawn from Europe, USA, the Middle East, China and Japan. Through these examples and cases, the authors analyze how luxury companies are facing the challenges posed by external shocks and an extensive need for digitalization. Using concepts and theories from macroeconomics (such as globalisation) and corporate and business strategy, the book aims to connect the dots between theory and practice. Resilience of Luxury Companies in Times of Change provides perspectives of the past, present and future – how luxury companies have evolved over time and managed to stay resilient despite the challenges they have faced through the different eras.

Italian Crime Fiction in the Era of the Anti-Mafia Movement Mar 08

2021 Over the last three decades, Italian crime fiction has demonstrated a trend toward a much higher level of realism and complexity. The origins of the New Italian Epic, as it has been coined by some of its proponents, can be found in the widespread backlash against the Mafia-sponsored murders of Sicilian magistrates which culminated with the assassinations of Judges Giovanni Falcone and Paolo Borsellino in 1992. Though beginning in the Italian language, this prolific, popular movement has more recently found its way into the English language and hence it has found a much wider international audience. Following a brief, yet detailed, history of the cultural and economic development of Sicily, this book provides a multilayered look into the evolution of the New Italian Epic genre. The works of ten prominent contemporary writers, including Andrea Camilleri, Michael Dibdin, Elena Ferrante, and Massimo Carlotto, are examined against the backdrop of various historical periods. This "past is prologue" approach to contemporary crime fiction provides context for the creation of these recent novels and enhances understanding of the complex moral ambiguity that is characteristic of anti-mafia Italian crime fiction.

A Comparison Between Two European Design Models in the Jewelry Business Oct 03 2020 The paper illustrates a model to manage design, adopting an overall perspective. This model includes three main fields of action: product design, retail design and visual identity design. The paper proposes a classification of companies adopting design as a leverage for differentiation: design-oriented companies and design-based companies. These companies have a different approach to consider and manage design. Such a model is applied to a specific industry where symbolic aspects are extremely important: the jewellery industry. Two cases are compared in the industry (Tous and DoDo Pomellato), located in two European Countries (respectively, Spain and Italy).

The Crocodile Apr 08 2021 The author of the Commissario Ricciardi series “ manages to conjure up the terrifying darkness at the heart of a serial killer in this chilling procedural ” (Publishers Weekly, starred review). The chaotic, shadowy city of Naples proves the perfect hunting ground for a killer dubbed “ The Crocodile ” by the press. Like a crocodile, when he devours his own children, he cries. And like a crocodile he is a perfect killing machine: He waits and watches until his prey is within range, and then he strikes. Three young people with very diverse backgrounds have been found murdered in three different neighborhoods, each shot with a single bullet, execution style. While his colleagues see little or no connection, Inspector Giuseppe Lojacono, smells a rat. Once an esteemed member of the mobile unit of the Agrigento police force, Lojacono was accused of leaking sensitive information to the mob and has now lost everything—first and foremost the love of his wife and daughter. But now he ’ s been given a second chance and a shot at clearing his name. A young magistrate has heard of his preternatural skills and his incredible powers of observation and she thinks a man like him is needed in Naples. So it is that Inspector Lojacono is charged with finding the link between the three dead bodies. At the root of these murders, he will discover, is a pain that still burns, a sense of guilt that cannot be purged, and one all-consuming love. “ A wonderfully suspenseful novel in which de Giovanni restores life to the cliché of the world-weary detective. ” —Kirkus Reviews (starred review)
