Millions of adults have divorced parents. Choose a Better Path provides thought-provoking, helpful, and healing information for adult children of divorce in a user-friendly format. Through workshops, interviews, articles, and international radio programs, Kent Darcie helps adults with divorced parents apply God's healing to triggers, fears, trust issues, anger, father hunger, unforgiveness, and the fallout from gray divorce (empty-nest parents splitting up). As a researcher, author, speaker, therapist, and adult with divorced parents, Kent brings a wealth of information and tools to those who struggle when dealing with parents, steps, ex-steps, and the menagerie of players that come and go in the years that follow the divorce. While never bashing or demeaning divorced parents or others, Kent does tackle the tough and often subtle issues that damage the relationships and marriages of adult children of divorce. If you, or someone you know, have divorced parents, reading Choose a Better Path is an important step toward breaking the cycle of divorce. An outspoken, controversial study argues that in order to live up to their potential and feel fulfilled, women need to remain in the workplace rather than stay at home with their children. Reprint. LT-F500F (1998-2002) The construction of buildings is learnt through experience and the inheritance of a tradition in forming buildings over several thousand years. Successful construction learns from this experience which becomes embodied in principles of application. Though materials and techniques change, various elements have to perform the same function. 'Principles of Element Design' identifies all the relevant elements and then breaks these elements down into all their basic constituents, making it possible for students to fully understand the given theory and principles behind each part. As all building projects are subject to guidance through the Building Regulations and British Standards, this book gives an immediate reference back to relevant information to help practitioners and contractors identify key documents needed.

The ultimate guide to predicting winners and losers in high technology

Pip Coburn became famous for writing some of the liveliest reports on Wall Street. He quoted everyone from Machiavelli to HAL, Anaïs Nin to Yoda, Einstein to Gandhi. But along with the quirky writing, he consistently delivered sharp insights into technology trends and helped investors pick stocks with long-term potential. After years of studying countless winners and losers, Coburn has come up with a simple idea that explains why some technologies become huge hits (iPods, DVD players, Netflix), but others never reach more than a tiny audience (Segways, video phones, tablet PCs). He says that people are only willing to change when the pain of their current situation outweighs the perceived pain of trying something new. In other words, technology demands a change in habits, and that's the leading cause of failure for countless cool inventions. Too many tech companies believe in "build it and they will come"— build something better and people will beat a path to your door. But, as Coburn shows, most potential users are afraid of new technologies, and they need a really great reason to change. The Change Function is an irreverent look at how this pattern plays out in countless sectors, from computers to cell phones to digital TV recorders. It will be an invaluable book for people who create and invest in new technologies. Over the past ten years there has been a massive growth in call centres worldwide. These centres are said to represent the most dynamic growth area in white-collar employment internationally since the mid 1990s. Yet the footloose and global nature of the industry means that jobs will always be susceptible to outsourced operations, ICT developments, public sector subsidization of business restructuring and re-location, and cheaper operations elsewhere. This book conducts a thorough analysis of this modern phenomenon. Once upon a time, he was everything to her, except for one thing: her future

She never imagined her son's ski instructor/Santa impersonator would be the gorgeous, charismatic dreamer she left behind years ago, the one who still owns a piece of her heart. Cole Hagan has never stopped loving Eden and he's spent the last eight years proving her wrong on every count about his potential. While he fights to save the resort that he helped to build by organizing a holiday concert, he decides it's about time that Eden puts aside her list-making pragmatism so that she and her skeptical son can experience the true magic of Christmas. Can a not-so-perfect angel help this unlikely pair get a second chance at happily ever after?
