Our Ecological Crisis Feb 02 2021

Sarah Colleen Jun 08 2021 Sarah Colleen is based on my daughter, Sarah. We live in the Piney Woods of East Texas, and we are almost surrounded by forest. I imagine what Sarah would be like as a young teenager exploring the woods with Ruby and Molly. I did much the same as a boy growing up, but with no dogs to keep me company. I didn't have many pets growing up, but as an adult, I found myself to be more of a cat person. Nearly all our cats are strays that wandered into our lives. Ruby and Molly were more recent additions. I want Sarah Colleen to reflect the atmosphere of East Texas and to show what most young people do when growing up in this part of Texas. Sarah is smart, friendly, and a bit independent. Her parents have shared their faith and their knowledge with Sarah and have equipped her with those things they believe will be most useful to her in navigating this world we live by demonstrating a higher way of thinking and acting.

Historical Foundations of Cognitive Science Jun 20 2022 My interest in gathering together a collection of this sort was generated by a fortuitous combination of historical studies under Professor Keith Lehrer and studies in cognitive science under Professor R. Michael Harnish at the University of Arizona. Work on the volume began there while I was an instructor in the Department of Linguistics and was greatly encouraged by participants in the Faculty Seminar on Cognitive Science chaired by Professor Lance J. Rips. I wish to express my appreciation to all of these and to many other individuals with whom I discussed the possibility of contribution to this work. I am especially grateful to the authors of the essays included here, as they showed more patience than I could have hoped for in seeing me through a number of uncertain stages in development of the project. My thanks are also due to my colleague Charles Reid for assistance in reviewing submissions, to Tim McFadden for computer resources, and again, to Keith Lehrer for continuing advice in arrangements for publication. Financial support for manuscript preparation was provided in part under University Research Grant No. 617 from the University Research Council, Youngstown State University.

The Bioelectrical Response of the Insect Eye to Beta Radiation Mar 30 2023 Moths of the family Noctuidae were used to determine the bioelectric responses of the compound eye to ionizing radiation. It was found that beta-radiation can induce a bioelectric reaction in the compound eye of the insect. The electroretinographic pattern is indistinguishable from that produced in response to a light stimulus. The flicker-fusion frequency threshold is also similar for the two stimuli. However, a difference exists between light and beta-radiation in the time course of the dark adaptation process. It could be demonstrated that the disparity is dependent upon the interaction of visual pigment with the light stimulus. An electroretinogram response was elicited by a beta-radiation exposure dose of less than one milliroentgen at the radiation dose rate of 20mr/second. (Author).

To Kill a Chiropractor Mar 18 2022 To Kill a Chiropractor The Media War Against Chiropractors Mark Twain warned -never pick a fight with people who buy ink by the barrel, -undeniably describing the century-long battle the chiropractic profession has fought against the AMA to -contain and eliminate- chiropractic by ruining its reputation with -chirophobia- -the poisonous and unwarranted defamation against chiropractors. Dr. JC Smith makes the case this medical-media war is fueled by Big Pharma spending billions annually on incessant direct-to-consumer advertisements to influence both the public and medical news reporters. Unquestionably, neither Big Pharma nor most MDs want any mention of nondrug solutions, especially chiropractic care for back pain. Chapters describing yellow journalism at major networks include -Banned at CNN- highlighting Sanjay Gupta, MD, who consistently avoids mentioning chiropractic care as an alternative to opioids or back surgery. -All Things Not Considered- at NPR reveals the virtual absence of chiropractic care due to NPR's largest sponsor - the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, a subsidiary of Johnson & Johnson, maker of OxyContin. To Kill a Chiropractor is a thought-provoking and entertaining analysis of the back pain epidemic, the leading cause of disability in the nation. Incorporating 700 references and expert scientific opinions, Dr. Smith cleverly utilizes childhood stories, such as the Chicken Little fable to characterize the hysterical media attacks on chiropractors; Dr.

Toad taking patients on his -wild ride- to drugs, shots and spine surgery; and Dr. Frankenstein promiscuously prescribing opioid painkillers like Halloween candy creating the current Pharmageddon with millions of new monsters dubbed the Walking Drugged, perhaps including you or someone you may know. Please visit the website @ Chiropractors for Fair Journalism.com. The Medical War Against Chiropractors Jul 22 2022 Historically the medical profession has waged many much-heralded "wars", such as the war against polio, the war against cancer and the latest wars on heart disease, obesity, and tobacco. But without question the longest war fought by the American Medical Association has been against chiropractors. The American Medical Association was once dubbed "the most terrifying trade association on earth," a truth the chiropractic profession experienced when 12,000 chiropractors were arrested in the first half of the twentieth century simply for helping patients with only their hands. A pivotal point in this war, an antitrust case, Wilk v. the AMA, occurred when court testimony revealed the AMA's Final Solution for the "chiropractic menace" to be the "complete elimination of the chiropractic profession." They called chiropractors "rabid dogs", "killers", an "unscientific cult", and "a danger to public safety." When taken to task in court, the AMA could not provide one witness to prove these accusations; it was purely propaganda. They lost the case, but the war has continued unabated. This ruthless war against chiropractors revealed a dark chapter in American medicine that few people have seen, but chiropractors know well. Ironically, research now confirms there is more proof for chiropractic care than back surgery, which has been "accused of leaving more tragic human wreckage in its wake than any other operation in history." After a century assailing chiropractic as quackery, the table has finally turned with the medical profession now on the defensive, a fact the public has yet to hear but is well documented in this book with the latest scientific findings. The purpose of this book is to discuss this dark chapter in medical history - the events, tactics, and characters involved in political medicine's war against the chiropractic profession from persecution to vindication. This is the untold story of the medical war against chiropractic from persecution to vindication that could only be told by a chiropractic advocate.

Girl Feb 14 2022 Sent to be a housemaid to work off her father's debts, Grace thought life had dealt her a bad hand already. Yet when her master's attentions end in sadism and pregnancy, her life is changed forever. He thinks he can banish her to a convent, little suspecting that, when her baby boy is torn from her heart, Grace has filled it with iron. What Grace little suspects is that revenge is only the beginning. Are her dressmaking skills enough for her to survive on the run? She has seen so little of the world outside the Manor, even money is new to her. Above all, who will understand about the baby she yearns to search for, and where could he be now, anyway?

Graphically portraying the meaning of revenge, J. C. Smith's Girl is a journey from violation to revenge, and something beyond revenge.

The Castration of Oedipus Oct 25 2022 The intellectual movements of psychoanalysis, postmodernism, and feminism have redefined the ways in which we think about human experience. And yet, an integration of these movements has been elusive, if not impossible. In this landmark book, J.C. Smith and Carla J. Ferstman combine these disparate traditions to create a provocative, unified, and tightly woven perspective that transcends the misogyny implicit in much of Freudian psychoanalytic theory. The dialectics of domination and submission are central to Smith and Ferstman's argument. Men and women, they insist, must avoid the temptation to fetishize equality and recognize the roles of domination and submission in the human psyche, or, in Nietzsche's terms, the Will to Power. They argue that the unification of psychoanalysis, postmodernism, and feminism leads us to a shocking conclusion--that women and men cannot move beyond the suffering which so haunts the human condition, unless heterosexual men surrender the power that is causing their misery and affirm life by joyfully accepting domination by women. And women, conversely, must reaffirm their power by rejecting Oedipal genderization and embracing a liberating matriarchal consciousness and a matriphallic sexuality. A work of tremendous insight and extraordinary intellectual energy, The Castration of Oedipus will provoke strong reactions in all readers regardless of ideology. Deja, Where's My Shoe? Mar 25 2020 Hi, my name is J.C. Smith and I'd like you to meet Deja and his older brother Max. "Deja, Where's My Shoe" is the first of a series of books about Deja, a black German Shepherd. As a former police detective and US Marine, most of my friends thought that the last thing I would be doing is writing a children's book and frankly so did I, but what started out as a simple poem about the antics of Deja playing with shoes, has turned into something much more. I have a dream and a passion, and by combining the two, I hope to build a rescue facility to help some of the homeless and less fortunate animals. This and future books will help me build such a facility. I'm sure you will enjoy this and future stories as much as I have bringing them to you.
