From the bestselling authors of The Go-Giver, Go-Givers Sell More, and The Go-Giver Leader comes another compelling parable about the paradox of getting ahead by placing other people's interests first. The Go-Giver Influencer is a story about two young, ambitious businesspeople: Gillian Waters, the chief buyer for Smith & Banks, a mid-sized company that operates a national chain of pet accessory stores; and Jackson Hill, the founder of Angels Clothed in Fur, a small but growing manufacturer of all-natural pet foods. Each has something the other wants. To Jackson, Smith & Banks represents the possibility of reaching more animals with his products—if he can negotiate terms and conditions that will protect his company's integrity. To Gillian, Angels Clothed in Fur could give her company a distinctive, uniquely high-quality line that will help them stand out from their competitors—if Angels Clothed in Fur can be persuaded to give them an exclusive. At first, the negotiations are adversarial and frustrating. Then, coincidentally, Gillian and Jackson each encounter a mysterious yet kindly mentor. Over the next week, while neither one realizes the other is doing the same, both Gillian and Jackson learn the heart of both mentors' philosophies: The Five Secrets of Genuine Influence. The story ends in a way that surprises everyone—and with lessons we can all apply in our efforts to resolve conflicts and influence others.

The classic story by Helen Bannerman of a young Indian lad who meets up with a tiger and turns him into butter. * Our summary is short, simple and pragmatic. It allows you to have the essential ideas of a big book in less than 30 minutes. As you read this summary, you will discover how to become a humble and caring leader. You will also discover : that the strength of a collective is the people in it, not the leader; that a good leader does not impose his authority, but invites others to progress and strive for excellence; that leadership is exercised on the ground, close to the individuals, with dedication and humility; that no one is omniscient or indispensable; that replacing the balance of power with respect and giving does not mean submitting, but rather encouraging your fellow men to do the same. There are many books, theories and advice on leadership: vertical or horizontal, more or less authoritarian, it is a constant preoccupation of leaders. But to focus so much on the abilities and conduct of an individual alone is a mistake. What really counts is the collective: the leader is there to guide and serve, to give each person the means to realize his or her potential. Through a parable on this central theme of the company, Bob Burg and John David Mann give you the keys to a new approach. It is not a model, but a state of mind: giving, emancipating, respecting and knowing how to step aside. *Buy now the summary of this book for the modest price of a cup of coffee!
