It's like when you sit in a coffee shop and enjoy looking at the people passing by. Some of the people capture your attention. You follow them with your eyes and you reinvent their stories. And yet the only thing you know about those people and their lives is their image standing in front of you. And that is what you try to do when then you draw and paint: you try to capture and reproduce those interesting images. Nothing more nothing less, because the image seems already to have everything you need within it.00Ultimately the work is about the image and the image is made by colours, lights and volumes. It seems to me that digital painting, so naturally adapted to working with primary colours, large backgrounds and flat surfaces, allows for the creation of very elegant images that also have a great sense of depth.00Exhibition: Droichead Arts Centre, Drogheda, Ireland (07.10. - 19.11.2017).0. Follow the trail of the abandoned Gandrange steelworks or the decommissioned Uckange blast furnaces in Lorraine, a spectacular marine graveyard in Brittany's Crozon peninsula, a forgotten chateau on the outskirts of Paris, a derelict sanatorium in the Alps, the remains of a magnificent Art Deco concert hall in the north, a disused hospital in the south-west, a military fort in the Pyrenees, now off-limits, a former wine storage cellar in Normandy ... Following the success of his first book, published in 2009, Sylvain Margaine still travels around France in search of these forbidden and often overlooked places. In this way he draws attention to the sometimes dramatic fate of the country's heritage, the preservation of which has become a matter for serious reflection. An exceptional photographic report. This first book about Palazzo di Montecitorio, examines the Baroque building through a photographic review of etchings and paintings featuring the palazzo, executed between the 17th and 19th centuries. The current building was commissioned by Pope Innocent X from Gian Lorenzo Bernini as a future residence for the Ludovisi family. Bernini, an interpreter of the true essence of Roman Baroque, designed a building which, in terms structure and decoration, was suited to the lie of the land. In fact, the facade of the palazzo, which is slightly curved, follows the line of the artificial hill, and the roughly-hewn stones, from which leaves and broken branches emerge, simulate a building constructed on bare rock.
