Students are motivated to learn managerial accounting by connecting concepts and techniques to the real world; using real cases and real manager's comments on real company issues. Students and instructors alike have praised this text's clear and concise writing style, to-the-point discussions, illustrated ideas, and examples that are presented to make ideas concrete In this new brief introduction to the rich and complex discipline of sociology, Jon Witt cuts to the core of the sociological perspective, supplying answers to two main questions: "Why do we think the way we think?" and "Why do we act the way we act?" Providing students with a glimpse of the "Big Picture," the author offers a top-down look at the structure of society, which allows us to see the many ways in which we are linked together. The book is based on the view that there are four basic parts to sociology: the individual, society, the relationship between the two, and the consequences of differences. Although the author presents some basic sociological facts about the individual and about society, the overarching concern of the book is the relationship between individual and society--the ways in which our actions shape the world around us and the ways in which we are shaped by the worlds in which we live. This book is a result of the ISD'97, Sixth International Conference on Information Systems Development-Methods and Tools, Theory and Practice held August 11-14, 1997 in Boise, Idaho, USA. The purpose of this Conference was to address the issues facing academia and industry when specifying, developing, managing and improving software systems. The selection of papers was carried out by the International Program Committee. All papers were reviewed in advance by at least three people. Papers were judged according to their originality, relevance and presentation quality. All papers were judged purely on their own merits, independently of other submissions. This year's Information Systems Development Conference-ISD'97 is the first ISD conference being held in the US. ISD was brought into existence almost ten years ago. It continues the fine tradition of the first Polish-Scandinavian Seminar on Current Trends in Information Systems Development Methodologies, held in Gdansk-Poland in 1988. ISD'98 will be held in Bled, Slovenia. ISD'97 consists not only of the technical program represented in these proceedings, but also tutorials on improved software testing and end-user information systems and workshop on sharing knowledge within international high technology industries that are intended for both, the research and business communities. We would like to thank the authors of papers accepted for ISD'97 who all made gallant efforts to provide me with electronic copies of their manuscripts conforming to common guidelines. We thank them for thoughtfully responding to reviewers comments and carefully preparing their final contributions. This is an introductory course in Management Accounting. Jiambalvo was developed based on the notion that a significant piece of the market was unsatisfied with the traditional, encyclopedic book. Across the first four editions, Jiambalvo has found its market within that space. It appeals to instructors who want to place a real emphasis on the non-accounting students in their course; it also appeals to those instructors who want their text to have a more streamlined approach (either due to lack of student preparation, short course duration, or personal preference). Through the fourth edition, the Jiambalvo segment has evolved to primarily state schools and community colleges. As in the past four editions, the fifth edition of Jiambalvo continues to be a more concise, affordable text that is focused on the needs of future managers. The book builds on the framework, exemplified by the book's two major themes (incremental analysis and performance measurement), that helps unite the numerous topics in managerial accounting.
